COURSE DESCRIPTION
Investigates moral and political issues in sport and judgments about right and wrong behavior among organizations, athletes, coaches, spectators, and others at the global level.

COURSE OVERVIEW
This course examines moral and political issues in sport from a global perspective. The primary intent is to gain an understanding of the ethical dimensions of sport and the ideological role it plays in international affairs and athletic competitions. Secondary readings, lectures, and discussions will be utilized to analyze the above topics.

• You are expected to attend all class sections, actively participate in class discussions, complete in-class exercises and fulfill all assignments. Assignments must be turned in at the beginning of class on the specified date due.

COURSE DELIVERY METHOD
This course will be delivered using a seminar format.

COURSE OBJECTIVES
Students will be able to:

1. Understand the institution of sport and promotion of national ideology.
2. Explain the interconnection between American sport and international affairs.
3. Identify the relationship among ideological hegemony, the media, and sport.
4. Explain how sport has served as a site for agency, resistance, and transformation.
5. Demonstrate the legacy of gender and racial inequality in sport from a global perspective.
6. Understand the moral imperative of correct action in international sport.

PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATION STANDARDS
Courses offered in the Sport and Recreation Studies (SRST) graduate program are guided by the principles of the Commission of Sport Management Accreditation (COSMA). COSMA (2010, p. 1) “bases its accrediting process on principles, rather than standards.” The eight recommended principles are:

• outcomes assessment;
• strategic planning;
• curriculum;
• faculty;
• scholarly and professional activities;
• resources;
• internal and external relationships; and
• educational innovation.
